

Internet or phone counselling can be very convenient for the client. Using technology will allow people around the world to access our expertise and effective therapists. We use zoom technology to speak via computer and we can see each other. Phone technology is also effective, especially when a computer is not available. MARTHA7 counsellors are skilled in counselling techniques using all of these technologies.